THE SERPENT TAMER.

A TALE OF THE SOUTH.

One day, towards the close of the fashionable season at one of the most celebrated of the Virginia watering places, a man, carrying a large box under his arm, made his appearance in the front yard of the visitor's hotel. He was tall and sinewy in person, with the air and deportment of a foreigner. The steady gray eye, and the rigid mould of features, indicated vigor of will and energy of character. In other respects, there was nothing noteworthy in his appearance or movements.

Having approached to within a short distance of the hotel, he deposited his box upon the ground, uncovered it, and took out a large rattlesnake, which he held in his hand, grasping it tightly around the body about six inches from the head, and fixing a steady gaze upon its glittering eyes. The reptile coiled its body around the arm of the man, or writhed in slow wavy motions through the air, darting its arrowy tongue with a sibilant sound through the half opened jaws. In a few moments the erect head drooped, the mouth closed, and the subdued serpent lay motionless in the hand of the operator, who, during the whole performance, stood, erect and silent, in the position he had first taken.

A spectacle so novel and exciting, attracted at once the attention of the visitors at the Springs. The ladies crowded on the front gallery of the hotel, and the men and boys gathered in a dense circle around the mysterious stranger, to witness his perilous feat.

To convince the spectators that the exhibition was not a deception, the performer drew forth another large rattlesnake from his box, placed a blunt short stick upright in its mouth so as to hold the fauces apart, and then, inserting another stick beneath the fangs, he pressed them outwardly until their full length was exposed to view. In this condition he carried the reptile round the circle of men and boys, and through the crowd of ladies, that all might see it was a veritable snake, armed with fang and poison with which his experiments were performed. This done, he returned to his first position, placed the snake upon the ground, and commenced kicking at it with great violence, taking care, however, not to strike it with his foot. Quickly irritated by the simulated assault, the snake threw itself into a coil, shook its rattles, and seemed eager to strike its assailant, who, leaning forward, seized and held it up, writhing and hissing, in his grasp. He looked steadily for a short time into his eyes, when, as in the first experiment, the head drooped, the passion subsided, and the serpent remained subdued and still in the hand of the tamer.

He next emptied upon the ground the contents of his box, consisting of a dozen or more large, venomous looking rattlesnakes. The reptile mass coiled, or glided, hissing and fierce, at his feet. He picked them up, one by one, gazed intently, for a short time, into their eyes, and then placed some of them in his bosom with their heads and necks protruding as from a den; others he twined around his neck and arms, and the rest he seized and held aloft in his hand. The reptiles writhed and twisted and coiled as if tightening their hold upon the person of the performer. Their eyes glittered, and their tongues shot forth and back, like tiny arrows, from their mouths. But the ominous rattles all were still, betokening that curiosity and not anger elicited these reptile demonstrations. The snake tamer, begirt with the serpentine girdle, remained not only unharmed, but apparently quite unconcerned. He had radiated the mysterious spell of the human eye upon them, and man asserted his lordship over the most cunning of all the beasts of the field.

The report of these wonderful feats having spread through the neighborhood; with the offer of a liberal price, by the performer, for live venomous snakes, of every description, a lad came in one morning to the Springs, bringing a large rattlesnake which he had just caught in the neighboring mountains. The snake tamer paid the promised reward for it, and proceeded at once to subdue it in the presence of nearly all the visitors.

Having cautiously removed the lid of the box in which the sake was confined, and turned it over upon one side, he withdrew a few steps and awaited the result. In a few moments, a rusty and most venomous looking rattlesnake, of very large size, crawled leisurely out upon the grass with which the yard was covered.—It is the nature of this species of the serpent race to betray neither fear nor excitement at the presence of man. Deeming themselves secure in the possession of enormous fangs and supply of virrus sufficiently copious and deadly to produce almost instant death in man or beast, they neither hasten to escape from sight when discovered, nor betray the least alarm when assailed. It is even the popular faith that they magnanimously give warning before they strike, by shaking their rattles, which produce a peculiar, whirring sound, startling to the nerves and alarming to the mind.

The presence of the performer and of the large crowd which surrounded him, seemed not to disturb or even to arrest the attention of the scaly monster, which, having crawled forth out of the box, lay motionless and extended to its full length upon the grass. The snake tamer approached and stimulated an attack by repeated and rapid motions towards its head with his foot. The reptile became furiously irate in a moment. Assuming the coil, which is its natural position both for attack and defense, it darted forth its tongue and shook its rattles with the rapidity and violence which produce their most alarming sound. As the performer continued, at a safe distance, the motions with his foot, the snake soon became almost blind with rage. Its head flattened, its eyes glittered like diamond points, and a fearful, prolonged hiss issued from its mouth. The man made one step towards it, when, unable longer to control its passion to strike, it leaped forward and fell full length upon the grass, close at his feet. Before it could throw itself again into a coil, he seized it with a firm grasp, about six inches below the head, and holding it off at arm's length from his person, lifted it up from the ground.

The rage and contortions of the now imprisoned reptile were terrible to behold. Through the air, and round and round the arm of the performer, it twisted and writhed the caudal extremity of its body, making, all the time, a monotonous and fearful whiz with its rattles, and essaying every moment, to strike his arm or his person. The spectators shuddered with horror and alarm at the sight; but the intrepid experimenter, confident in his art, betrayed neither fear nor doubt as to the certainty of his triumph.

From the moment he first seized the snake, he had looked, with a fixed, almost an unwinking gaze, into his eyes, which the serpent apparently returned with a look equal steady and fierce. By degrees the contortions of its body became less violent, and its efforts to strike less frequent. The arm of the man was gradually bent, so as to bring the snake, by slow approaches, nearer to his face. At length, overcome by the magnetic fascination of his look, it lay harmless and unresisting in his grasp. He placed it in his bosom, twined it around his neck and fondled it with his hands. The subdued creature, shorn of its native ferocity, yielded itself to the power of its victor, and permitted him to caress and handle it with impunity.

The spectators broke forth into audible expressions of admiration at the accomplishment of this remarkable feat. The performer passed his hat around for a collection, and soon had the satisfaction of receiving it back well replenished with coins—the enthusiasm of the visitors prompting them to make a liberal donation as a reward for the peril he had braved, and the entertainment he had afforded.

Satisfied with his success, the snake tamer vanished from the Old Sweet Springs as suddenly as he had come. In a few days, however, he made his appearance at another and not very distant watering-place in the Old Dominion, where he repeated, before a wondering crowd of spectators, the same feats with his snake. A new and most perilous addition was destined to be made at this place to the almost fabulous list of his achievements.

A countryman brought him, one day, a rattle-snake, recently caught, which was said to be peculiarly vicious and dangerous. He bought it, and announced his intention to tame it upon the greensward in front of the visitor's hotel. A large crowd assembled to witness the feat. A vacant space being left in their midst for the experiment, the snake—a very large and most ugly-looking one—was placed upon the ground and provoked to anger by a feigned attack with the foot of the performer. At the proper moment he seized it, but almost immediately threw it violently upon the ground, exclaiming that he was bitten in the hand. The crowd quickly drew back, and the stunned reptile lay motionless where it fell.

The man at once applied his lips to the wound, and sucked it with great eagerness for several minutes. Finding no relief from the pain which he endured, he next made several incisions, with the point of his knife, in the flesh of his wounded hand and arm. Then, taking from his pocket a large white bean, he scraped and pounded a portion of it into a thin, impalpable powder, which he rubbed into the punctures upon his hand and arm. He bit off and swallowed another portion of the same bean. This specific he called the Cedron bean. "It grows," said he, "in the East, and is an infallible cure for the bite of venomous reptiles."

In the mean time the virus, having become diffused throughout his system, began to produce painful and alarming effects. The arm and hand, swollen to enormous size, assumed a livid hue. Vertigo, nausea and stupor—the three most fatal symptoms in cases of assault upon the powers of life by reptile poison—began to supervene. Death seemed inevitable, and almost at hand.

The courageous man refused either to sit or lie down, but walked backwards and forwards, uttering occasionally a suppressed groan of anguish. The torture of the pain he endured forced the prespiration in streams from his forehead and face. To the inquiry of one who asked if he suffered much, he replied, "Yes, more than tongue can express, or you can conceive."

The landlord at the Springs, alarmed at the fatal result of the experiment, and apprehensive that the snakes might escape to infest his premises, rushed out, cudgel in hand and with loud imprecations, to kill them. The sick man, whose first care, after being bitten, had been to replace and secure all the snakes, including the untamed one, in their boxes, seemed to forget his own sufferings in the imminence of the peril which threatened his uncouth favorites. Confronting the landlord with both look and meaning gesture, and protesting loudly against the meditated assault upon the snakes, he threatened to inflict immediate and summary punishment for any harm that might be done them.—Awed by the stern visage and fierce words of the man, the landlord desisted from his undertaking and retired within the hotel. Such an outburst of passion and combativeness from one who seemed to be already dying from the bite of one of the monsters which he was so prompt to defend, struck the beholders with mingled astonishment and awe. Was it the delirium of approaching death, or the madness of a wild attachment to the reptile companions of his wanderings, that fired his passions and led to the spectacle which they had just witnessed? No one could tell, but all looked on, amazed and perplexed at what they saw and heard.

It was with the snake tamer, now apparently in the last extremity, as with other mortals in the final hour—the ruling passion proved strong in death. Being interrogated as to his feelings and hopes in prospect, of impending dissolution, he said that he experienced neither hope nor fear in the contemplation of the great hereafter. He was not afraid to die, and desired to live only that he might be able to prove the supremacy of his art in the subjugation of the snake which had bitten him. That accomplished, he cared neither how nor when the inevitable summons came.

When first bitten, he had been induced, by the persuasion of others, to swallow a small draught of whiskey, which is deemed a valuable antidote in cases of poisoning by the bite of a snake. But no entreaty could prevail on him either to repeat the remedy or apply other specifics known to medical science. He had unshaken confidence in the efficacy of the Cedron bean; and should that fail to cure him, he felt persuaded that it was fated for him then and there to die, in despite of all human aid to save him.

By this time the virus had produced its most fearful effects upon the system. The pain which he endured became agonizing in the extreme. His sight grew dim, his pulse sank to fifty feeble beats per minute, alternate flushes of heat and cold passed over his body, his articulation became thick and indistinct, and both the pallor and the stupor of death seemed to be rapidly spreading over both mind and body. Unable longer to walk or even sit erect, he had fallen prostrate upon the floor, and was lifted by the bystanders and placed upon a low couch, in one corner of the bar-room of the hotel, to die.—Fortunately his reason remained undisturbed, and he continued to bite off and swallow portions of the Cedron bean, which, he still believed and asserted, had power to save him. As yet it had produced no perceptible effects To all appearance the poison was steadily enroaching upon the citadel of life, which seemed already tottering beneath its furious assault,

Several gentlemen of the medical profession who where present as spectators, now interposed and begged to be permitted to use other remedies as the patient himself could not fail to see that his own antidote had failed. Roused from his stupor by the discredit thus attempted to be thrown upon his bean, the apparently dying man repelled, with vehement gesture and earnest word the insinuation against its efficacy, protested his unshaken faith in it, and concluded his expostulation with a blunt refusal to permit other antidotes to be applied, at the same time biting off another portion of the Cedron bean.

The spectators could do no more than leave him to his fate. Gathering in a dense sem-icircle close to his couch, they stood silent and with uncovered heads awaiting the departure of a human spirit to the bar of the final Judge. Stranger though he was to them all, and dying as they believed, by a rash persistence in the use of an inefficacious antidote, the fact that he was undergoing the extreme penalty common to humanity on account of the primal sin, made his fate and his suffering objects of mysterious interest, for the moment, to every one in the room. Death is not only the leveller and the sanctifier, but its presence makes all beholders feel of kin to the victim which it has seized and is bearing to the jaws of the remorseless grave.

Apparently exhausted by the effort which he had just made in speaking, the snake tamer sank back upon his couch and remained for a few moments silent and still. A fresh paroxism of pain having supervened he groaned heavily, turned his face to the wall and began to mutter like one who talks in a disturbed sleep. Imperial reason had, at length tottered upon its throne and the wild delirium, produced by a fevered brain and a tortured body, had come over the sufferer.

He babbled long and incoherently of snakes and Cedron beans, performing his feats with the one over again, and recounting the marvellous cures made in eastern climes with the other.—As the shades of the mental eclipse grew deeper, he spoke less and less audibly, until his voice sank to a whisper, and then by degrees, his lips ceased to move, and he was, to all appearance, dead.

After the lapse of half an hour he began to revive. The respiration deepened, the pulse quickend and swelled in volume, the stupor lifted like a cloud, from mind and body, and, in a short time, he opened his eyes and spoke. The vigor of his constitution, or remedial power of his Cedron bean, but more probably both combined, had triumphed. He rapidly convalesced and in a few days was able to go about as usual His snakes had been left undisturbed in their boxes, and he proposed to resume his experiment of taming the one that had bitten him.—But the landlord and the visitors, satisfied with what they had seen, protested against its being repeated, and gathering up his boxes and carpet bag, vanished from the theatre of his recent sufferings as he now does from this tale.

A ROMANTIC AFFAIR.—Quite a romantic affair occurred in the western part of Philadelphia a week or two ago. The facts are these: Mrs. B———,(a handsome and rich widow) and the mother of a pretty daughter of 16 summers,) by some means became acquainted with a young carpenter, who, although a fine looking man, was in rather poor circumstances. The carpenter visited the lady's residence very frequently, gallanted her to the church, the theatres, &., scarcely paying any marked attention to the daughter, who sometimes accompanied them. Madame Rumor, with her thousand tongues, soon noised it about that the carpenter and the widow were about to be made one, and his friends congratulated him on the prospects he had of so shortly being able to "hang up his hat." The widow, too, was complimented by acquaintances, and in fact she began to think that the thing would take place, although the carpenter had not, as yet, "poped the question," With the craft naturally possessed by "widders," she threw out a hint to her gallant at his next interview, and from this hint he took it for granted that she was anything else than averse to a matrimonial union with him. He thought it was time to act and undeceive the lady, which he certainly did and astonish her too, for the next morning he eloped with the daughter! This set all the gossips in the neighborhood going, and they one and all pronounced it "scanalous." The girl's mother, however, being a woman of sense, takes it philosophically, and has forgiven the young people, who are now domiciled at the family residence. She gives her daughter credit for the shrewdness the latter exhibited in her courting, and also the carpenter for his discretion in picking of the two, the youngest and the prettiest.

BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.—I saw a man at eventide near the grave of one dearest to him on earth. The memory of joys that were passed, came crowding on his soul. And this, said he, all that remains of one so loved and so lovely? I call but no voice answers. Oh my loved one will you not hear! O death! inexorable death! what hast thou done? Let me bow down my sorrows in the slumber of the grave! While thought thus in agony, the gentle form of Christianity came by. She bade him look upward, and to the eye of faith the heavens were disclosed. He heard the song of transport of the great multitude which no man can number round the throne. There were the spirits of the just made perfect the spirit of her he mourned! There happiness was pure, permanent, perfect. The mourner then wiped the tears from his eyes, took courage and thanked God.—All the days of my appointed time, said he, will I wait till my change come; and he returned to the duties of life no longer sorrowing as those who have no hope.

Carrier's Address
TO THE PATRONS OF THE "BEDFORD GAZETTE."

JANUARY 1, 1859.

Oh! thou, whatever name thou bearest,
Whate'er the creed by which thou swearest,
Or what the lot in life thou sharest,
Be't good, or evil,
Who but a shilling's value carest
For me, poor "devil!"

To thee be health and peace and pleasure,
And all the joys that mortals treasure,
Sans calculation and sans measure,
This New Year's morning;
(And if thou be'st a loafer, leisure
For years of yawning!)

Whate'er thy nature's predilection,
If but an honest man's inspection
Discovers there in no defection,
God gratify it!
And may it be thy heart's election
To do well by it.

If in thy bosom holy wishes
Supplant, with thoughts and hopes delicious,
The lust for earthly "loaves and fishes,"
And banish evil,
Be fiends that tempt no more malicious
Than Printer's "Devil!"

If toward the world thine inclination,
If Gold's attraction, Fame's elation,
Or Pride's eternal, fell vexation,
Do onward lure thee,
Mayst thou have thy worst condemnation
From Sheriff's Jury.

If Beauty's forms to thee are charming,
If "women's looks" do prove alarming,
So that a certain bachelor's arm in,
Thy heart is pining
To place some crinoline and carmine,
(The two combining

What constitutes thy beauteous lady;)
Remember Juan and his Haidee;
Remember Cupid, ever ready
For thy undoing;
Watch "Number One," with eyesight steady,
When gone a-wooing.

If rural sights and sounds delight thee,
So that the fields and woods invite thee
Where thorns do prick and "varmints" bite thee,
Refrain from swearing,
But give thy love for Nature mighty,
A wholesome airing.

'Twill do you good God's works to ponder;
Of trees and rocks and hills to wonder;
To listen to the cataract's thunder;
And gaze admiring,
On all that meets you as you wander
With foot untiring.

If politics possess attraction
To draw thee to that sphere of action,
Where envious faction wars with faction,
Be thine the party
That aims to bind each jarring section
In Union hearty.

But if by lanthorn darkly litten,
Or, if by love of negro smitten,
Thy name, perchance, thou hast down-written,
With that foul party,
The Constitution the bottomless pit in,
With curses hearty,

Would hurl, if it but had the power,
I pity thee, unhappy giaour!
Oh! soon may come the glorious hour,
When thou no longer
Shalt 'neath the lash of leaders cower,
Or office-monger.

But thou, whate'er thy occupation,
Thy feelings, wishes, earthly station,
To whom shall come this visitation
Of "one-horse" rhyming,
May New Year bells for thee occasion
A merry chiming!

A MIDNIGHT ADVENTURE.

Females often possess presence of mind, and the power of self-control under circumstances of imminent peril which seem almost foreign to their nature, and beyond the endurance of delicate physical organization. A striking instance of self command, by a lady whose fears must have been powerfully excited, and whose life of affluence had probably never before given her nerves any severer test than is incident to the vexations of domestic care, is given in Chamber's Journal of last month. We copy the adventure, promising by way of explanation that the lady was the daughter of a rector residing in a quiet English country village, and was upon the eve of marriage.

The wedding day was to be on the morrow of that on which our adventure happened.—Grand preperations were made for the wedding; and the rector's fine old plate, and costly gifts of the bride, were discussed with pride and pleasure at the Hare and Hounds, in the presence of some strangers who had come down to a prize fight which had taken place in the neighborhood.

That night, Adelade, who occupied a separate room from her sister, sat up late—long after all the household had retired to rest. She had a long interview with her father and had been reading a chapter to which he had directed her attention, and since, had packed up her jewels, &c. She was consequently still dressed when the church clock tolled midnight. As it ceased, she fancied she heard a low noise like that of a file; she listened but could distinguish nothing clearly It might have been made by some of the servants still about, or perhaps it was only the creaking of the old trees. She heard nothing but the sighing of the winter winds for many minutes afterwards. Housebreakers were mere myths in primitive Shyndon, and the bride elect, without a thought of fear, resumed her occupation. She was gazing on a glittering set of diamonds, destined to be worn at the wedding, when her bedroom door softly opened. She turned, looked up, and beheld a man with a black mask, holding a pistol in his hand standing before her.

She did not scream, for her next thought was for her father, who slept in the next room, and to whom any sudden alarm might be death, for he was old, feeble, and suffering from heart complaint. She confronted the robber boldly, and addressed him in a whisper 'You are come,' she said, "to rob us. Spare your soul the awful guilt of murder. My father sleeps next to my room, and to be startled from his sleep would kill him. Make no noise I beg of you."

The fellow was astonished and cowed. "We won't make no noise," he replied sullenly, "if you give us everything quietly."

Adelaide drew back and let him take her jewels—not without a pang, for they were precious love gifts, remarking at the same time that two more masked ruffians stood at the half open door. As he took the jewel case and watch from the table, and demanded her purse, she asked him if he intended to go to her father's room. She received a surly affirmative; "he wasn't going to run a risk and leave half the tin behind!"—She proposed instantly that she should go herself, saying: "I will bring you whatever you wish, and you may guard me thither, and kill me if I play false to you." The fellow consulted his comrades, and after a short parley, they agreed to the proposal; and with a pistol pointed at her head, the dauntless girl crossed the passage, and entered the old rector's room.—Very gently she stole across the chamber and removed his purse, watch, keys and desk, gave them up to the robbers who stood at the door. The old man slept peacefully and calmly, thus guarded by his child, who softly shut the door and demanded if the robbers were yet satisfied.

The leader replied that they should be when they had got the show of plate spread out below, but that they couldn't let her out of sight, and that she must go with them. In compliance with this mandate, she followed them down stairs to the dining room, where a splendid wedding breakfast had been lain to save trouble and hurry on the morrow. To her surprise, the fellows—eight in number when assembled—seated themselves and prepared to make a good meal. They ordered her to get them out wine, and to cut her own wedding cake for them; and then seated at the head of the table, she was compelled to preside at this extraordinary revel.

They ate, drank, laughed and joked; and Adelaide, quick of ear and eye, had thus time to study, in her quiet way, the figures and voices of the whole set.

When the repast was ended, and the plate transferred to a sack, they prepared to depart, whispering together, and glancing at the young lady. For the first time Adelaide's courage gave way, and she trembled; but it was not a consultation against her, as it proved. The leader, approaching her, told that they did not wish to harm her—that she was "a jolly wench, reg'lar game," and they wouldn't hurt her, but that she must swear not to give an alarm till nine or ten the next day, when they should be off all safe. To this she was of course obliged to assent, and then they all insisted on shaking hands with her. She noticed in this parting ceremony, that one of the ruffians had only three fingers on the left hand.

Alone, in the despoiled-room, Adelaide, faint and exhausted, awaited the first gleam of daylight; then as the robbers did not return, she stole up to her room, undressed, and fell into an undisturbed slumber. The consternation of the family next morning may be imagined; and Adelaide's story was still more astounding than the facts of the robbery itself. Police were sent for from London, and they, guided by Adelaide's lucid description of her midnight guests, actually succeeded in capturing every one of the gang, whom the young lady had no difficulty in identifying and swearing to—the "three fingered Jack" being the guiding clue to the discovery. The stolen property was nearly all recovered, and the old rector always declared—and with truth—that he owed his life to the self-possession and judgment of his eldest daughter.

The only ill effect of the great trial to her nerves, was a disposition, on the part of the young heroine to listen for midnight sounds, and start uneasily from troubled dreams; but time and change of residence soon effected its cure.

THE IMPOSTORS OF THE LAST CAMPAIGN.

We need not remind the readers of this journal, that during the last campaign we did our best to warn the people against the frauds and hypocrisy of the leaders of the Opposition.—We prophesied that all their ranting about "protection," all their out-cry for a revision of the tariff, would prove but hollow pretences, and that they would not fulfil their promises to the people, concerning the Tariff, should they be elected. That we were right in our predictions, is fully shown by the action of the Opposition in Congress, in endeavoring to stave off the revision of the Revenue laws, and thus to keep in force the present low Tariff, of which they, last fall, complained so bitterly. The telegraph informs us that the "Republican" Senators and Representatives in Congress, "have come to the unanimous conclusion that parties and politics are so shaped in the present Congress, that nothing will be effected during this session, concerning a modification of the Tariff." This, being interpreted, means that those "Republican" Senators and Representatives, "are determined that nothing shall be effected during this session of Congress concerning the modification of the Tariff." They reckon that as they were able, last winter, to defeat the President's Kansas Bill, they will, (by a combination similar to that by which they succeeded in doing the former) be alike successful in preventing the establish ment of a proper Tariff.—Their object in opposing the revision of the Tariff, is to keep the question open for future discussion. They found it useful to them at the last election, and they suppose that having blind-folded certain people once, they can do it again. They want the Revenue to fall short, so that the Government will lack the means of paying its debts, and then they intend to raise such a howl about "extravagant expenditures" of the Administration, as will r ing in the ears of the Democracy for all time to come. And if, perchance, the "hard times" should continue, they think to bellow as lustily as ever for a high Tariff, and to make the people believe that it was not their fault that the Congress of 1858–9, suffered the Tariff of 1857 to remain unchanged. Such impostors as these deserve to be "whipped naked through the world," and if the people do not soon protect themselves against their imposition, they may look to be swindled, not only out of their votes, but out of their rights as free and independent citizens.

MEETING OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The State Legislature convened at Harrisburg on Tuesday last, but at the present writing we have no account of its doings. The Opposition members of the Lower House, have nominated W. C. Lawrence, of Dauphin, for Speaker, flooring Col. McClure, of Franklin. Lawrence will, of course, be elected, as there is a decided majority of the ring-streaked and striped in that body. The Democrats have nominated P. G. Gritman, of Luzerne, for the same office, and Jacob Zeigler, of Butler, for Chief Clerk.

From the following which we take from the Harrisburg correspondence of the Pittsburg True Press (edited by a Republican) one might be led to suppose that "Simon" will soon point up:

That distinguished individual, Gen. Simon Cameron, is in town. I saw him on the street to-day, in company with a distinguished Democrat, who has been in his pay for years. Of course, Simon's mission is known. Some "hard up" country editors, with an eye single to Middletown funds, have raised his name to their masthead for President in 1860. He comes here to feel the Republican pulse, and as there are quite a number of Republican editors here, and more daily expected, you may look out for a similar arrangement to that made by Ford in 1856.

The Ne Plus Ultra of Detectors.—Peterson's Counterfeit Detector and Bank Note List, corrected by Drexel & Co., the well known Bankers and Brokers, is the best and most reliable work of its kind, published in this country. The January number contains a full description of fifty two new counterfeits, and also the fac simile of a bogus Bank Note, that is being altered to suit various banks all over the country, and which, it is said, is being put into extensive circulation. It also furnishes much valuable information concerning other matters pertaining to banks and money. The number before us is an improvement on its predecessors, in point of size, containing forty-eight pages, with fac similes of several hundred gold and silver coins. We have no hesitation in recommending this Detector to all who handle money. The subscription price is $2 for the semi-montly issue and $1.00 for the monthly. A copy of "Peterson's Complete Coin Book," a very useful work, will be furnished, gratis, to all subscribers to the Detector for 1859. Address T. B. Peterson & Brothers, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

LARGE HOG.

Hon. Jos. B. Noble, of S. Woodberry Township, last week, killed a hog about nineteen months old which weighed, when delivered at Hopewell, the next day, 524 pounds. This hog had been at large, on the farm and received no extra attention until put up for fattening, about the 1st of November. Price of pork, 6 cts., making his pork-ship worth $31 44 cts.—Pretty good for one hog.

Dr. F. C. Reamer has sold the one half of his Drug Store to Dr. S. J. Way, who is a young man well, qualified for the business, having had large experience as a druggist. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name and style of Reamer & Way.

Atlantic Monthly.—This work has become the acknowledged organ of American letters.—Longfellow, Holmes, Mrs. Stowe, and other prominent American authors, are regular contributors to its pages. A new serial, entitled the "Minister's Wooing," by the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was commenced in the December number, and will run through the present volume. Of the success of this magazine, the Boston Traveller has the following:

Unprecedented Success.—We are glad to learn that the Atlantic Monthly is meeting with great favor from all sources. Though the publishers printed nearly thirty thousand copies of the January number, this large supply was entirely exhausted on the very day of publication, thus compelling many new subscribers and others to wait a few days before obtaining a copy. The publishers have another edition of several thousand in press, which will be ready in a few days, and with their present facilities they will be able to supply the demand, however large it may be. Their subscriptions, received by mail alone from all parts of the country, have averaged more than one hundred a day, for some time past. Mrs. H. B. Stowe's new serial, "The Minister's Wooing," is immensely popular, as indicated by the success which is thus attending the enterprising publishers efforts to make the Atlantic the embodiment of all that is entertaining and instructive.

☞We will furnish the Bedford Gazette and Atlantic Monthy, for one year, at $3.50 per annum, in advance. The subscription price of the Atlantic, is $3.00 per annum.

☞Mr. William Hartley's essay before the Young Men's Christian Association, on Friday night last, is spoken of with much praise. We did not have the pleasure of hearing it, but our knowledge of Mr. Hartley's ability, warrants us in saying that it could not have been otherwise than very creditable.

☞Taylor & Mowry, heretofore partners in the tanning business, have dissolved partnership. John A. Mowry, one of the firm, has the books for collection and settlement. See notice.

☞O. E. Shannon Esq., offers more lands for sale, or trade, in this week's paper. See his advertisement in another column.

☞Don't forget Mrs. H. D. Peugh, who is now selling out her entire stock of Goods at first cost.

SENATOR DOUGLAS IN NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 1.

Senator Douglas was serenaded last night and in response made a speech from the balcony of the Everett House. He defined his position in regard to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and the foreign policy of this country, but carefully avoided recurring to any question of a personal character, as between himself and the administration; contenting himself with saying that it was the duty of a statesman to follow our principles to their legitimate and logical consequences, regardless of the effect they may have on our public position.

Mexican News.

From Mexico, we have news of a rumor that Zuloaga has offered to place Mexico under the protectorate of Great Britain, and that a Mr. Worrell has been despatched to England to arrange the matter. A Spanish naval brig had arrived off Tampico. A bottle had been picked up at sea, containing a written statement that the Spanish frigate Guadaloupe had been wrecked off the Island of Lobos, while making preparations for the threatened attack on Vera Cruz. A deposit of silver, amounting to $125,000, had been found in a vault attached to the house, in the city of Mexico, lately occupied by Mr. Forsyth, as the United States Embassy. General Zuloaga was still in the city of Mexico, but was preparing for flight at any moment. Several of his Generals in the field had been defeated by the Liberals, and the Archbishop had refused to supply him with any more money. A triumvirate was proposed. Five French and three Spanish vessels were at Sacrificios.

TREMENDOUS PILES OF GOLD.

The Bullion in the Bank of France now stands at about $120,000,000—a far higher sum than was ever held by that establishmhnt, and more than $9,000,000 in excess of the largest total ever collected in the Bank of England.—At the commencement of the present year, the Bank of France held less than $50,000,000, and the influx in nine months has therefore been $70,000,000. At the Bank of England the total, at the beginning of the year, was $53,000,000, and it is now more than $95,000,000. The highest sum it ever possessed was $111,000,000, in July, 1852

☞A Gentile, last week, ran away with a pretty Miriam, the daughter of a Cincinnati pawn broker. They were traced to St. Louis, where the father had the youth arrested for abduction. By some means the little Jewess succeeded in obtaining permssion to visit him in his cell, accompanied by a justice from Illinoistown; and while the attention of the jailor was diverted, the parties were made one by the magistrate, and the Hebrew's plans defeated in the twinkling of an eye. Woman's wit saved the lover. In the afternoon the father withdrew his complaint, and the happy couple went on their way rejoicing.

☞Last week there were 174 deaths in Philadelphia; 88 children, 86 adults, 91 males, 83 females.

Canada and the United States.

A correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says that though neither her Majesty nor prince Albert can gratify the Canadians by a visit, yet one of her sons—the Prince who has just entered the navy, Alfred, born in 1844—will appear as their representative. You must have heeded the frequent interviews of the distinguished Canadian delegates in London with the members of the Cabinet, and the extraordinary favors, invitations to the palace, and so forth, which they have received from the Court. The main object is proclaimed to be a federation of the British North American Colonies; the railway across the British territory to the Pacific coast is, however, co-ordinate and necessarily or integrally connected. The study of the British government is no longer confined to the means of simply preventing the colonies from annexing themselves or being annexed to the Republican Union, but how to create an equal, a rival British power, the whole breadth of the continent conterminous with the American population. The Toronto correspondent of the London Morning Post, remarks—"It has become an utter impossibility to arrest that onward movement which will make Canada a formidable rival of the disjointed and therefore misnamed United States." The Post of the 23d or 24th contains a communication on the Atlantic and pacific junction, which should not escape your notice. The writer had well studied his important subject. He explains in detail the relative positions in the case of Great Britain and our Republic. I shall venture to offer you here a short extract:

"In America we have a rival that fully appreciates the necessity of railroad communication with the West. Assuredly she will strain every sinew to beat us in accomplishing this gigantic undertaking. Let us first consider our own status in the matter, then that of our highly enterprising rival. England is already further across the huge continent of America than are the Americans themselves in forming a basis of operations for a railroad to the Pacific. In our British North American possessions the route is feasible of construction, and is superior to any which the United States afford."

But the correspondent shows further that, in point of time, Britain cannot compete with America in the Southern transit; the more imperative, therefore, an overland route through the British possessions. He describes the American overland mail, and adds:

"The same contractors are in readiness to contract with the British and American Governments to carry a mail from St. Paul and Pembina to Fraser River, through British America."

The Gold of Pike's Peak.

The Washington Union has published a letter from J. C. Hemingway, & Co,. of Leavenworth city, Kansas, to Gen. Ward Burnett, which sums up the following information in regard to the Pikes Peak gold mines:

1st. The gold is found on the surface, and, at various distances, to the depth of eight feet.

2d. The "bed rock" has not yet been reached by any of the miners.

3d. With the rudest implements they were able to obtain from $2 to $5 per day.

4th. With improved means, such as "sluices" and "toms" there are "millions of acres" (to use their own phrase) that will produce $20 per day, and many places as much as $40.

5th. That this new gold region differs from California in this: The gold is scattered broadcast over a vast extent, and not found in "pockets," "gulches," and ravines," as in California; thus insuring a support, at least for every man that is disposed to labor.

6th. The specimen accompanying this note constitutes a part of the labor of the Messrs. Russell, in "more than five hundred different places."

7th. The last place they labored was at "Cherry creek," sixty miles northeast from "Pike's Peak." This creek empties into the South Fork of the Platte, on the South side of that river. At this point, Cherry creek, they found the richest "diggings."

The Gamblers in Council.

The Gamblers of the United States are holding a National Convention in Chicago. They are said, by the Democrat, of that city, to make a decided sensation, being distinguished by their sleek appearance, sharp looks and display of jewelry. The purposes of the Convention are, first, to revise the old rules and establish new ones for their games; and second, to impose on the profession non-interference in politics.—The importance of the first reform is indicated by the fact that several lives have been lost in broils arising from different constructions of the rules. As for the second, it seems to us, judging from recent revelations and notorious facts respecting the habits of leading public men, that an obvious way to effect it is to exclude politicians from gambling houses—a measure which would almost involve annihilation of the business.

Another Steamboat Accident.

The large stern wheel steamer Metropolis, Capt. Calhoun, bound from Pittsburg for New Orleans, with a cargo of over four hundred and fifty tons of produce and Pittsburg manufactures, ran into the bank during a fog, one morning, last week, at two o'clock, at Sugar Creek, below Cincinnati, and instantly sunk.—The boat is a complete wreck, having broken in two. There were no lives lost. The Seventy-six coming up, landed at the wreck, Capt. Barclay and his crew rendering all the assistance required. She lies with her bow directly in the mouth of the creek, with the water above her cabin floor aft. We understand she went into the bank under a full head of steam. The tall timber knocked her chimneys down. The wreck will be out of water when the river recedes eight or ten feet. The Metropolis was built at Pittsburgh, over two years since, and was in her third season. She originally cost twenty six thousand dollars, and it will be remembered, exploded a boiler on her first trip, above this point, killing Capt. Hazlett and others. She is owned by her commander, Capt. Calhoun, Capt. Hazlett's widow, and others in Pittsburgh, where, we understand, she was insured for fourteen thousand dollars. The loss of boat and cargo will amount to over one hundred thousand dollars—the bulk being from Pittsburgh, and points above Cincinnati.

There is a law in Natchez, Miss., which authorizes the Mayor to announce every week the current price of bread based on the cost of first quality flour, and no baker can sell otherwise. For instance: for the week commencing December 7th, the Mayor gave public notice that first quality of flour being worth $9 per barrel, the weight of a twenty cent loaf must be 53½ ounces, and in this proportion for the smaller ones.

Trade With the Northwest.—A letter from Chicago, published in the Philadelphia North American, says:

The fact is that, after all, the west and northwest are the great purchasers and consumers of goods. They are more extravagant and use up more of some of the great staple manufactures—say woolens, cotton and hardware—and there cannot be a revival of trade at the east to any great extent, until they are again able to buy liberally, and pay for their purchases promptly.

I am sorry to say that, so far as northern Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota are considered—more especially the two latter—this longed for state of things cannot be, until we have had a good crop, and not a full restoration until after we have had two good crops. We have been hardly dealt with, the past twelve months—our crops of wheat and oats nearly destroyed by the wet weather of the past summer; and this fall, the trade for the season—what little there was expected—almost ruined by two months of continued rain and mud. I have been in this city sixteen years, and comparatively speaking, have never known it so miserably dull as during the past six months. There are some branches of trade that are absolutely dead, for the time. There is one thing pretty certain, however, that through economy, retrenchment and reform, the odds and ends are getting pretty well used, and so soon as people are able to buy, their necessities will require them to spend the money freely.

The Paris correspondent of the Boston Transcript states that he has visited the studio of Greenough, the sculptor, and says:

On entering, I was struck with a statue of Washington, which he had just finished. As an equestrian statue, it is unique in its way.—The horse, instead of being rampant, as is almost always the case, has his head to the ground. He has just been relieved from the pull of the General's hand, and, with head down, is champing the bit, just as any one may observe a horse doing after a hard ride. Let the reins go and at once the animal will stretch his neck and champ the bit, thus resting the muscles that have been drawn upon for some time. The horse is finished in such a masterly style that all the jockeys who have seen it are rapturous in their applause. The artist has chosen the most auspicious moment in the great man's life to represent. The General is in the act of sheathing his sword.

A Great Jail Delivery!—Two Murderers at Large—Ten Prisoners Gone.—On Sunday afternoon, about four o'clock, one of the officers of the county prison went into the jail for some purpose, and was struck with the remarkable fact that with the exception of one or two colored men imprisoned for trifling offences, none of the prisoners could be seen.—It was not long before Mr. Lowe discovered what had become of them. A good sized opening through the three foot wall in the rear or west end of the prison told the story. Ten of them had dug through the wall and escaped.—The wall through which they dug is in the darkest part of the prison, and the aperture opens into a small room directly beneath the arena of the Court room. After once getting into the vacant room below the entrance, it was an easy matter to ascend the dark flight of steps, break open the ordinary door, and be at liberty.

The following are the names of the escaped prisoners and their crimes.—Conrad Seibold, indicted for the murder of Henry Korrell on 27th of June last. John Fronenberg, also indicted for the murder of Korrell. These two are the most important cases. Seibold and Fronenberg are both desperate and dangerous men, and will not be retaken without a mortal struggle. These same men made an attempt to break jail by sawing away an iron grating, two or three months ago, but were fortunately discovered on the eve of the execution of their plan. The other prisoners escaping are Milton Dudley, horse stealing; George Miller, burglary; Thomas Smith, sent to jail to await trial at Common Pleas Court for shooting Philip Barnell, with intent to kill; Thomas Watson, sent to jail upon the same charge; Wm. Williams, petit larceny; John Kelly, petit larceny; Robert Armstrong, petit larceny; James Brown, petit larceny. –Ohio Statesman, Dec. 28th.

In twenty-four of the thirty-two States, negroes are allowed no political privileges whatever, that place them on an equality with the white race. Eleven of these twenty-four States are free. New York practically excludes them by a freehold qualification and a long residence before voting. Two more States—Maine and Rhode Island—exclude them by requiring all voters to be citizens of the United States.—Massachusetts and New Hampshire are about the only States that make no distinction of color or race, and there they are not allowed to serve in the militia.

An old man, a beggar, was arrested in Washington on Tuesday, for carrying concealed weapons. He was searched at the station house, and about $1,400 in notes and American and other coin, was found in his pack, along with old watches, awls, files, needles, soap, &c.—He, a Swiss, has been in this country about 15 years, and there is so much sickness in this country he is determined to go back to Switzerland, and in order to obtain money that was not depreciated in Europe, he had bought French coin for American. The pistols were for self-defence.

How a Man's Life is Sometimes Prolonged.

Below will be found a certificate from one of our most respectable citizens, residing in Patton township, regarding the efficacy of Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup, a medicine which we have favorably known for a long time, and which is attested by hundreds of our immediate citizens, in every walk in life. Whatever some may think of what are usually termed patent medicines, we have entire confidence in Dr. Keyser's Pectoral, as we are assured that the Doctor prepares every ounce of it with his own hands.

"Some time ago, an old neighbor of mine was very ill with a bad cough, which every one supposed to be consumption. His relatives told me that he had taken every remedy they heard of without benefit, his brother came to see him die, and all were confirmed in the belief that he could not live. I had about a third of a bottle of your Pectoral Syrup, which I gave him, and it entirely cured him to the astonishment of all. What makes the case more remarkable is the extreme age of the man, he being about eighty years old. I have no doubt the Pectoral saved his life. JOHN M'GINNIS,

Ayer's American Almanac for 1859 is now ready for delivery gratis at the agents who are happy to supply all that call for them. Every family should have and keep this book. It is worth having. Comprising much general information of great value; it gives the best instruction for the cure of prevalent complaints, that we can get anywhere. Its anecdotes alone are worth a bushel of wheat, and its medical advice is sometimes worth to the sick, the wheat's weight in gold. Many of the medical almanacs are trash, but this is solid metal. Its calculations are made purposly for this latitude and are therefore correct. Call and get an Ayer's Almanac, and when got, keep it.

MARRIED:

On the 18th of December last, by the Rev. H. Heckerman, Henry Hillegas and Miss Julian daughter of Fredrick Turner, all of Harrison township.

DIED:

December 18th, 1858, Frank Barclay, son of Dr. F. C. and Georgianna R. Reamer, aged two years, five months and nine days.

On the Friday following, Dec. 24th, Charles, son of Espy L. and Louisa Anderson, in the seventh year of his age.

"Jesus said, suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

"My little one, my sweet one, thy couch is empty now,
When oft I wiped the dews away, which gathered on thy brow.
No more, amidst the sleepless night, I smooth thy pillow fair,
'Tis smooth indeed, but rest no more thy small, pale features there.
My little one, my sweet one, thou canst not come to me,
But nearer draws the numbered hour when I shall go to thee;
And thou, perchance, with seraph smile, and golden harp in hand,
May'st come the first to welcome me, to our eternal land."

TOOTHACHE.—This disease can be cured by Dr. Keyser's Toothache Remedy, prepared by him in Pittsburg, Pa., which is put up in bottles and sold at 25 cents each. It is an excellent medicine, when diluted, for spongy and tender gums, and is worth ten times its price to all who need it.—Sold at Samuel Brown's, Bedford, and at J. E. Colvins, Schellsburg. Township or Single Rights of Bedford County for Sale, of

J. M. Clark's

NEWLY INVENTED PATENT, PORTABLE MERCHANT FLOUR MIXING AND DISTRIBUTING APPARATUS, AND COMBINED GRINDING AND BOLTING MERCHANT

Flouring Mill,

OF FULL SIZE, which requires but SIX HORSE POWER to run—grinds 10 bushels of wheat per hour, and makes better and more flour than any mill in existence—turning out at the same operation, Family, Extra, Superfine, Fine, Middlings, Shorts, Shipstuffs and Bran, and occupying but little space—a room 12 by 21 being amply large to place the Mill in and work it successfully.

This highly ingenious and much needed invention, performs an entire new feature in the manufacturing of grain into flour, and attains objects which have been heretofore wholly beyond reach. The splendid manner in which it performs its functions; the simplicity of its structure; all complicated and useless machinery being avoided; the ease with which it can be transported from one location to another—a horse and wagon, at two loads, being all that is requisite; the small space it occupies when ready for use, which would not be missed when placed in a room with other machinery; and the small amount of power used to propel it—the rapidity with which it performs its work—the different qualities of flour by a single operation—the quality and yield per bushel is unsurpassed.

MILLERS AND MILL-OWNERS!

Your attention is called to this ingenious, valuable and scientific bolting process, which will save you ten times it cost every six months, if used in your mill in place of your present machinery. It will enable you to make a larger yield of flour, a more uniform quality, and a much better flour.

☞Manufacturers price of Mill $650

☞Right to use from $50 to $100

☞Persons in this county wishing to see the practical workings of this mill, before purchasing can do so by calling at the mill of John Bingham, at Hollidaysburg, Penna., who has one in operation.

☞The right to use can be had by calling upon either of the undersigned, at Bedford, who have the power to sell Bedford county.

TO INVALIDS.—DR. HARDMAN—ANALYTICAL PHYSICIAN AND Physician for Diseases of the LUNGS, FORMERLY PHYSICIAN TO THE CINCINNATI MARINE HOSPITAL, AND INVALIDS RETREAT,

Author of "Letters to Invalids,"
Editor of the "Medical Stethoscope," &c.,

Dr. Hardman treats Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Laryngitis, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, by Medicated Inhalations lately used in the Bromton Hospital, London. The great point in the treatment of all human maladies, is to get at the direct manner. All medicines are estimated by their action upon the organ requiring relief. This is the important fact upon which Inhalation is based. If the stomach is diseased we take medicines directly into the stomach. If the lungs are diseased, breathe or inhale medicated vapors directly into the lungs. Medicines are the antidotes to disease and should be applied to the very seat of the disease. Inhalation is the application of this principle to the treatment of the lungs, for it gives us direct access to those intricate air cells and tubes which lie out of reach of every other means of administering medicines. Inhalation brings the medicine in direct contact with the disease, without the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is so simple, that it can be employed by the youngest infant or feeblest invalid. It does not derange the stomach, comfort or business of the patient.

Other Diseases Treated.—In relation to the following diseases, either when complicated with Lung affections or existing alone, I also invite consultation. I usually find them promptly curable.

Palpapus and all other forms of female complaints, Irregularities and Weakness.

Palpitation and all other forms of Heart Diseases, Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, and all other diseases of the Stomach and Bowels, Piles, &c. &c.

All diseases of the eye and ear. Neuralgia, Epilepsy, and all forms of nervous disease.

S. D. HARDMAN, M. D.
No charge for consultation.

THE
Liver Invigorator.
PREPARED BY DR. SANDFORD,
COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS,

Is one of the best purgative and liver medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic, easier, milder, and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experenced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the Liver having ceased to do its duty. For the diseases of the proprietors has made this study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with Liver Complaint, in any of its forms, has but a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove from the system, supplying flow of bile, invigorating tone and health to all morbid or bad matter removing the cause of radical cure, and what is better, purifying the blood, giving occasional use of the Billious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented, by the Liver Invigorator.

One dose after eating the whole machinery, stomach and prevent the is sufficient to relieve the souring. food from rising and

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia. ☞One dose of two teaspoonfulls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction, removes the cause of the disease and makes a perfect cure. Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera.

☞Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness. One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.—One dose often repeated cures, Chronic Diarrhœa, in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose. One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children; there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever and all Fevers of a Billious Type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues. All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

☞Mix Water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR

Is a scientific medical discovery, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

JOY TO THE ADMIRERS OF A FINE HEAD OF
RICH GLOSSY HAIR.

Talk of beauty, and it cannot exist without a fine head of hair, then read the following, and if you ask more, see circular around each bottle, and no one can doubt.

Professor Wood's Hair Restorative.—We call the attention of all, old and young, to this wonderful preparation, which turns back to its original color, gray hair—covers the head of the bald with a luxuriant growth—removes the dandruff, itching, and all cutaneous eruptions—causes a continual flow of the natural fluids; and hence, if used as a regular dressing for the hair will preserve its color, and keep it from falling to extreme old age, in all its natural beauty. We call then upon the bald, the grey, or diseased in scalp, to use it; and surely the young will not, as they value the flowing locks, or the witching curl, ever be without it. Its praise is upon the tongue of thousands.

The Agent for Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative in New Haven, received the following letter in regard to the Restorative, a few weeks since;

Deep River, Con., July 23, 1858.

Mr. Levenworth—Sir: I have been troubled with dandruff or scurf on my head for more than a year, my hair began to come out, scurf and hair together, I saw in a New Haven paper about "Wood's Hair Restorative" as a cure. I called at your store on the 1st of April last, and purchased one bottle to try it, and I found to my satisfaction it was the thing, it removed the scurf and new hair began to grow; it is now two or three inches in length where it was all off. I have great faith in it. I wish you to send me two bottles more by Mr. Post, the bearer of this.—I don't know as any of the kind is used in this place, you may have a market for many bottles after it is known here. Yours with respect,

RUFUS PRATT.

Phila., Sept., 9, 1857.

Prof. Wood—Dear Sir: Your Hair Restorative is proving itself beneficial to me. The front, and also the back part of my head almost lost its covering—in fact had. I have used but two half pint bottles of your Restorative, and now the top of my head is well studded with a promising crop of young hair, and the front is also receiving its benefit. I have tried other preparations without any benefit whatever. I think from my own personal recommendation I can induce many others to try it.

Yours respectfully, D. R. THOMAS, M. D.
No. 464 Vine street.

Vincennes, Ia., June 22, 1856.

Prof. O. J. Wood: As you are about to manufacture and vend your recently discovered Hair Restorative, I will state, for whomsoever it may concern, that I have used it and known others to use it—that I have, for several years, been in the habit of using, other Hair Restoratives, and that I find yours vastly superior to any other I know. It entirely cleanses the head of dandruff, and with one month's proper use will restore any person's hair to the original youthful color and texture, giving it a healthy, soft and glossy appearance; and all this, without discoloring the hands that apply it, or the dress on which it drops. I would, therefore, recommend its use to every one desirous of having a fine color and texture to hair. Respectfully yours,

WILSON KING.

Hammonton Lands—NEW ENGLAND SETTLEMENT.—RARE OPPORTUNITY.—TO ALL WANTING FARMS—in a healthy place, twenty-five miles from Philadelphia, on the Camden and Atlantic railroad, New Jersey. An old estate has been recently opened for sale, and the first division of 10,000 acres divided up into farm of twenty acres and upwards. The soil is of the best quality for the production of fruits, grains &c. The price is $15 to $20 per acres, payable in easy quarterly yearly instalments, with a term of four years, with interest. The terms are made easy, in order to insure the rapid improvement of the land, by enabling every industrious man to buy a farm. It is now being extensively improved by good roads, and some of the best citizens from New England and the Middle States are erecting large improvements. It is a scene of the greatest improvement out of Philadelphia. Seventy-five houses have been built in four months. Practical farmers and business men from the length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its being in the midst of a great market. Every article raised upon this land finds an immediate sale. The water is excellent, and no such thing as fever is known. The soil is a sandy loam, with a clay bottom and retentive of manures. It is free of stones and easily worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such is its fertility that from the crops produced both upon this land and the large area adjoining under cultivation, it will be found not to be excelled anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its market. The reader may be well aware that the earliest and best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, which are annually exported to the amount of millions of dollars. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fertillizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of muck manure. Lumber and building materials can be had on the spot at a cheap price, from the mills. Other mills are now being opened, and brickyards being started on the ground. A person can put up a frame tenement for present convenience for one hundred dollars. On account of the extensive emigration, this is the best course to pursue in order to get a place to live in at first. Carpenters and builders are on hand to put up houses on the best terms.

In settling here the emigrant has many advantages. He is within a few hours' ride of the great cities in the Middle States and New England; he is near his old friends and associations; he is in a settled country, where every improvement and comfort of civilization is at hand; he is in a healthy place, and is not subject to the certainty of losing the greater part of his family and his own health by those malignant fevers which make the graves of so many millions of the young and hardy in far off regions away from home and friends. Besides, he has a mild climate and an open winter. There are three trains daily to Philadelphia, and to all those who improve the railroad company gives a free ticket. The reader will at once be struck with the advantages here presented, and ask himself why the property hasont been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown in the market; and unless these statements were correct, no one would be invited to examine before purchasing. This all are expected to do—They will see the land under cultivation; they will meet persons, no doubt, from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements, and can judge of the character of the population. Persons should come prepared to purchase, as many are locating, and locations are not held on refusal. The Hammonton Farmer, a monthly Literary and Agricultural sheet, containing full information of Hammonton, will be sent to each inquiter, and can be obtained at 25 cents per annum.

Title indisputable. Warrantee deeds given, clear of all incumbrance, when purchase money is paid. Route to the land:—Leave Vine street wharf, Philadelphia, for Hammonton by railroad at 7½, A. M. and 5½, P. M.; when there inquire for Mr Byrnes. Boarding conveniences will be found. Letters and applications can be addressed to S. B. COUGHLIN, 202 South Fifth Street below Walnut, Philada. Maps and information cheerfully furnished. (aug. 27, '58.

SHOE STORE!

Ferguson & Co.,

HAVE just opened their new Store in "Anderson's Row" of buildings, nearly opposite the Gazette Office.

Their stock of Boots and Shoes for men, women and children, is certainly the best and cheapest that has ever been brought to Bedford, for three reasons.

First:—On account of the pressure of the times, they have been laid in at 30 cents on the dollar less than what was paid last year for the same goods.

Second:—They were bought for CASH, and the usual discounts made.

Third:—They were bought in much larger quantities than dry goods merchants buy them, and consequently were bought much lower.

If this is doubted, the evidence is on the stand at the counter.

LADIES' DEPARTMENT.

The store room has been so arranged as to have a separate apartment for the Ladies, provided with comfortable chairs and stools where they cat sit and talk, or buy shoes as they please.

Pickles and Fruits.

In connection with the shoe business, all kinds of Pickles, Fruits and Preserves will be kept, including Pine Apple, Peach, Strawberries, Cherries, Brandy Peaches, Catsups, Mixed Pickles, Lobsters, &c., &c.

—ALSO—

The best, and most general assortment of Tobacco and Cigars, will be kept constantly on hand.

As there is no store of this kind kept in this county, the proprietors are determined to keep it right, and sell at the lowest living profits.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

A compound remedy, in which we have labored to produce the most effectual alterative that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effective antidote for the diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. It is believed that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints:—

SCROFULA AND SCROFULOUS COMPLAINTS, ERUPTIONS AND ERUPTIVE DISEASES, ULCERS, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, TUMORS, SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, SYPHILIS AND SYPHILITIC AFFECTIONS, MERCURIAL DISEASE, DROPSY, NEURALGIA OR TIC DOULOUREUX, DEBILITY, DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION, ERYSIPELAS, ROSE OR ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulum of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle.
